The fall term for the school year of 1937-38 will begin Tuesday, September 14, and on that date a large group of students will begin a new year of College work.

Activities of this Summer quarter will come to an end on Thursday, August 5. Students and faculty members will leave the institution for their homes for a few weeks of rest and vacation until schools begin the last of August or the first of September.

The schedule of examinations for the Summer quarter classes was announced last week by Dr. James C. Faculty Members Plan to Spend Vacations In Interesting Places Vacation time for the summer College faculty is almost here!

Many and varied are the places where College teachers will vacation during the month of August and until duty beckons them back to classrooms next fall, it was found in recent interviews by a representative of The Missourian.

Several instructors who have filled places in the various departments during the summer session will not return to the College next fall, but will return to other institutions to teach in classes there. Regular College instructors will return to Maryville after a summer's vacation.

Following is a list of summer school instructors and where they intend to spend the remainder of the summer:

Dr. James C. Miller, dean of the College faculty, and acting president, said that, "It looks to me now that most of my vacation will be spent at M. S. T. C." Executive matters, such as preparing for the open-

The College publicity director, Mr. T. A. Gaudin, indicated that

Report Reveals Girls Smarter Than Boys

Freshman Women Made Higher Scores Every Quarter In School Subjects

HIGHEST SCORE WAS BY A BOY

Girls are smarter than boys if intelligence tests given at the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College during the last school year is an indication. The 148 girls in the freshmen class made a median score of 138.66 while the 126 boys made only 137.27. Girls on the average also made higher scores every quarter in the different school subjects than the boys made. The highest test score however, was made by a boy as well as the lowest score.

The tests were a part of the freshman guidance program, a report on which was released this week by Bert Cooper, director of freshman guidance.

The report reveals that approximately 70 per cent of the freshman students earned at least one-fourth of their expenses in school during the school year 1936-37. More than one-fifth of the class were earning all of their expenses, while another 11 per cent were earning three-fourths and 18 per cent were earning one-half.

The report also shows that 45 per cent of the freshman last year came from farm homes. Thirty per cent of their parents did not go to school beyond the grades and only about 6 per cent had more than two years of college work.

The freshmen ranged in age from 15 to 55 years old. Most of them, however, were 18, with 17 following closely.

Only 60 per cent of the class had decided to follow teaching as a profession. The next favorite choice

Miss Alene Harris Tells All Answers to Banquet Problems

Director of Women's Activities Writes Comprehensive Book on Subject

Should you have occasion to put on a banquet, Miss Alene Harris, director of women's activities for the summer at the College, has written a book which will tell you all about it. Published last week, by the Broadman Press of Nashville, the volume contains 130 pages of valuable information concerning that great American pastime.

Everything from invitations to speeding home the lagging guest, and from place cards and soup to cheese and nuts is covered in detail by Miss Harris. Not content with doing a three-fourths job, she has even diagrammed decorations and written explicit instructions about making them. Occasionally, she tells the toastmaster what to say and how to say it, and the book is full of clever things for the host or hostess to do and say.

A good example of the author's treatment of her subject is the "April Fool Banquet." Starting with the invitation, she takes up the reception of guests, who are "met at front by a foolishly dressed couple who, after placing a false face and a number on each of them, direct them to the rear entrance of the Five students will receive the Bachelor of Arts degree at the end of this quarter. All of the A. B. students are residents of Maryville.

No special commencement exercises will be held at the end of this quarter for graduates as most of the students who finish their work next week received special recognition at the annual commencement exercises held last spring.

Following is a list of candidates for degrees, certificates and renewals as approved by the College faculty Monday of this week:

Monte Carlo Opera Company Trio Gives Assembly Program

Miss Naomi Cook, Mr. Ludlow White And Miss Fritzie Rehbach Were Here Last Week

A trio from the Monte Carlo Opera company delighted the College faculty and students with a musical program in assembly last Friday morning.

The trio, composed of Miss Naomi Cullen Cook, dramatic soprano and Mr. Ludlow White, dramatic baritone, both of the Chicago Civic Opera company, and Miss Fritzie Rehbach, the accompanist, performed under the direct sponsorship of Madame J. Evans. Having appeared at the College last summer and during the winter quarter of 1935, the group was not new to many of the students and faculty.

Miss Cook and Mr. White opened the program with a pleasing duet, "Our Love Is So Sweet in the Springtime," from "Maytime."

Among the selections of Mr. White's two groups of songs were an air, "Evening Star," from the famous "Tanhauser," by Richard

Did you see several wire figure frames carried about by art students this last week? The carriers were students taking costume design class under the supervision of Miss Eileen Morrison.

The frames, representing human figures served as basis for small models. Some were realistic after material was wrapped about the wire to complete the human form, and a face and imitation hair added. These models served the purpose of making costume work more realistic, for material was draped about them after a drawing had been made of the costume.

In the costumes drawn, several art principles were noted—divisions of space, color, and pattern. This model served for the same purpose as that employed by designers in their work.

The class also made a series of historic and foreign costumes. These are of special value for they show how present styles are derived from the past, and also from foreign countries.

Members of the class are: Dorothy Graham, Helen Shipman, Elizabeth Burris, Lola Acklin, Sue Bell, Ida Buell, Frances Carmean, Mary Louise Lyle, and Thelma Pebley.

MANY STUDENTS AIDED BY NATIONAL GUARD PAY

Since the local unit of the national guard was established here in 1921 hundreds of college men have been among its members.

There are many ways that a college student may earn money to help pay expenses, but none so pleasant as the battery. Most of the college members use their drill checks to pay tuition. Others use their pay for miscellaneous expenses.

Many people say that the members of the guard will be the first ones to be called upon to serve the country in case of war. This is probably true, but sooner or later all able-bodied young men will be called and the ones that have had training in the national guard will be able to serve with better ability and with more safety to themselves.

The local unit is under command of Capt. E. V. Condon and Warrant Officer Ralph Yehle. Captain Condon is in command of the firing battery and Warrant Officer Yehle of the band.

Other commissioned and non-commissioned officers are: Lieutenant Perkins, Lieutenant Miller, Lieutenant Peetoom, 1st Sgt. Davis, Sgts. Francis, Yates, Richards, Hathaway and Phipps. All of the above are College students or graduates.

The battery and band will leave Maryville August 15 for Fort Riley, Kas., where they will take part in army maneuvers in company with more than 100,000 men from other national guard units and the regular army and reserves.

Because of the splendid work done by the local battery the school has consented for drill in it to be counted as physical education credit.

CHICAGO SOPRANO WELL RECEIVED BY STUDENTS

Miss Leola Turner, soprano, was well received at the last assembly of the summer quarter, Wednesday morning. Miss Turner has sung many important roles with the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

SEVEN YEAR OLD ATTENDS CLASSES AT COLLEGE

Dudley Dean Whitmore of Albany has been attending College here this week. Although only seven years old, Dean is regular in attendance in the corrective speech class under Dr. J. P. Kelly.

Mrs. Mary Nickols Sweat, Dean's

former teacher and a member of the class brought him here at the suggestion of Dr. Kelly for the purpose of correcting his speech difficulties and giving the members of the class an opportunity to have training in correcting the speech defects of pupils in their schools. Dean is shown pictures in scrap books containing illustrations of the initial, medial, and final sounds of all the phonetic alphabet. When he names the pictures, the students discover wherein he needs help and apply the proper remedial measures. He is given the opportunity to hear his difficult sounds correctly in non-sense syllables, words, and sentences several times before he is asked to say them.

Work of oiling and black-topping the drive from College avenue to the administration building and also the drives over the College grounds was begun Tuesday morning. The roads were closed to traffic Tuesday and Wednesday.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

This newspaper wants to express its appreciation to the administrative officers, faculty, and members of the student body for lightening the task of the Missourian staff in publishing this newspaper each week of the summer quarter. It was they who furnished the information that went into the columns of the several editions during the summer, and the editorial staff appreciates their cooperation.

In the second place, the staff wishes to express its appreciation for the kind cooperation of the Maryville Tribune Pub. Co., printers of the publication. Delays on the part of contributors in having their copy in on time sometimes worked a handicap on the printers of the paper, but in spite of that, they failed not once in having the papers at the College for distribution at 11 o'clock each Thursday morning.

In the third place, the editor and faculty sponsor of THE NORTHWEST MISSOURIAN would express their appreciation and thanks to the various associate editors of the paper. Without their assistance, it is doubtful that the publication would appear in front of the Missourian office at 11 o'clock each Thursday morning. Their work has been truly appreciated.

Last but not least, the editor, faculty sponsor and associate editors would express their appreciation for the diligent work of the "faithful few" on the contributing staff. To be sure this paper would never have appeared had it not been for the steady, careful work of the summer term reporters. They have realized that it is no easy task to publish a newspaper every week and consequently have given their services willingly and cheerfully in covering all the news and news sources in this institution. They have indeed done a commendable piece of work and deserve the respect and commendation of every reader of THE NORTHWEST MISSOURIAN.

THE QUARTER'S END

Next Thursday afternoon the Summer quarter of 1937 will come to a close. From that day on until the last of August or the first of September, the faculty and student body of the College will be offered the opportunity for a needed rest. Most students in the College at the present time have either taught all year and then attended summer school or have attended classes at the College for the past eleven months with but few breaks. These students, with members of the faculty, are indeed entitled to at least a month's vacation and rest.

The Summer quarter this year has been a profitable one for each person connected with the College. Work has been done toward renewing certificates and also toward the cherished Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Arts degree. Many students will receive those degrees at the end of this quarter by virtue of having attended summer classes.

Socially the quarter has been successful, and while not nearly so many social events take place in the summer because of the inactivity of most organizations on the campus, summer school students have cooperated and participated in those events which were held. Outstanding events were staged for men by the Knights of the Hickory Stick, and for women by the Residence Hall and Varsity Villagers organizations. Various county clubs have been organized during the summer and picnics and other social events have been staged by them.

While no outstanding intramural athletic events have taken place this summer, various activities on the golf course, the tennis court, the athletic field, the gymnasium floor and the swimming pool have attracted the College sport enthusiasts.

On the assembly stage several outstanding programs have been presented before the largest audiences of any quarter during the year. In addition to assembly programs, entertainments such as the plays presented by the Coffey-Miller players and the College Kindergarten Circus of just this week, have attracted and amused the many College people who attended.

And now that the summer quarter is drawing to an end, we would wish students who leave this institution to take positions in schools next year, happiness and success in their work, and hope that they will visit the College in years to come as frequently as possible.

DON'T SCARE 'EM

In conversing recently with a College student, he said of a College instructor that one of the reasons for his appreciation of the instructor was that upon entering the classroom the students felt perfectly at ease. The teacher did not attempt in any way to frighten the students or in any way make them feel ill at ease. That, we believe, is one of the high compliments to pay an instructor. Most teachers would have better cooperation and work on the part of the students if the students could say the same thing about them.

Some schools have on their faculties instructors who would be better in the role of a "hard-boiled" sergeant in the army than in the role of a teacher in a school. Some teachers, in an effort to maintain discipline or otherwise show authority, to display a "tough" disposition, which, in the main, only serves to feed the humorous dispositions of the students.

On the other hand, a greater number of instructors have what may be termed the correct technique in dealing with disciplinary problems or other problems which arise in the classroom—and it is not the technique of the "hard-boiled" teacher. The most profitable thing for student teachers to do is to imitate the tactics of instructors who do not try to "scare" learning into their students.

With the end of the summer quarter just one week away, this newspaper this week publishes the final edition of the current term, thereby giving the staff of contributors an earned vacation and also a little time to prepare for examinations which they—despite the fact that they are newspaper people—must take, the same as other students in the College.

STC Ramblings

By MARY ANNE HAMILTON

With the College road blocked for oiling, it at least gives one a chance to see how the campus looks without rows of cars parked all along the drive. It also seems much quieter and less dusty. And, then too, it means less hitching and more hiking.

This weather we're having must be a return of spring. The grass is green again and the dandelions are in bloom. Ankle socks are not so frequently seen and light coats are not out of place. We haven't heard any complaining, either.

The San Carlos singers really bring out the enthusiasm in College audiences. They were enjoyed very much at last week's assembly.

Green apples are certainly being consumed on this campus. In this case an apple a day increases the doctor's business.

The hazards of reading this paper are greater even than we had thought. Two women were sitting on the steps reading it when another came down behind them also reading the N. W. M. and instead of going around them, she went over. No lives were lost but there was quite a tangle for a while.

Isn't it about time for open season to be declared on back slappers? Also, on the fellow who says when he sees a good sunburn "What are you blushing about?"

The shivering you see is not all due to the cool weather, you know exams are just on the other side of the week-end.

Pity the poor grasshopper. We saw an odd scene near the long walk. There was cat, a robin and a grasshopper, but the cat wasn't chasing the robin, they were both trying to catch the grasshopper. That's what adverse publicity has done for the great gobbling insect.

Roasting ears, fried chicken, watermelon! This is the grandest time of year.

August 5, marks the end of a long and busy school year. Few of the students now in school will be back next fall. Most of them will be teaching, some for the first time but to the majority it will not be a new experience. It will be the old story of learning from the other side of the desk.

The time has come for many of us to turn around before it is too late and look back over College years before going out the door for the last time as a student. Different things impress different people but there are certain things that will always be associated in my mind with M. S. T. C. There were kindergarten days when we used to rattle around with Joe Trullinger in the old green bus, when we used to sing football songs before we knew the meaning of the words, and when we thought that college students were from another world.

Maybe the things we have learned in college won't stay with us long but that won't matter so much. The contacts made with the personality of teachers is the important thing in education. With that in mind we consider that our four years here have been very fruitful. So, an orchid to you, teachers.

A list of things that will always seem a part of this institution would include, of course, the well-known bug-under-the-chip and a farm in Atchison County; the often heard "don't you know, students;" all the "pertinent facts;" the cheerful "Bonjour, mademoiselle;" the assembly, "a few announcements please;" "my good people" and "my good friend in Minnesota;" the familiar picture of the Royal Gorge; the war posters in 327; the Old English motto on the wall about not disturbing the bones; the quintet of English poets; the picture covered walls of social hall; the busts of Shakespeare and Milton; Abe.

Also, Chester, the planaria we cut up and watched grow up again; the way the library looks on enrollment day; the crowded halls and steps on exam days; the crowd around the Missourian office when the paper comes out; the jam at the East door on rainy days; students on the front steps in the first warm days of spring; walking through dry leaves down the long walk in the fall and through snow and ice in winter; how nice the campus looked in May covered with yellow dandelions; how hazy the air looked at football games.

Yearly events that stand out are confused enrollment days; walk out day; football games; teacher's meeting; vacations; spring contests; recitals; Tower coming out; exams. After we started this list we found that we have neither time nor room ever to complete it, you can probably complete it in your own mind, anyway.

College Musicians To Europe August 1

through several southern states including Virginia and West Virginia. They will pass through Washington, D. C., where they will spend about a day visiting the United States capital. From Washington, the men will travel along the Atlantic seaboard to New York harbor where they will sail Saturday, August 14, on the S. S. Champlain, of a French line.

The musicians will travel under the tourists' class and will be about six days in crossing the Atlantic ocean. The steamer will first dock at Plymouth, England, and then proceed to Harve, France. They will spend about one week in France before the return trip to the United States. In returning to Maryville, the men plan to come the northern route through Canada.

Mr. Clare Wigell, of the College department of music and leader of the local dance band, was instrumental in arranging the trip abroad. He has had experience of that sort previously.

Mr. Wigell plans to obtain a trip next year for the College band into the Caribbean countries in which he can take seven members of the regular College orchestra.

DEMAND FOR TEACHERS GREATER THIS YEAR

There is an unusual demand for all types of teachers this year at decided increases in salary according to Mr. Homer T. Phillips, head of the committee on recommendations at the College. This statement makes the outlook very bright for those planning to enter the teaching fields either as high school, elementary or rural teachers. The demand is greater than it has been at any time in the last ten years.

Mr. Phillips also said that the supply of majors in elementary education, home economics, commerce and music especially is exhausted.

Cleo C. Wright, former student, is grade principal at Frontier, Wyoming, having been reelected.

Final Social Events At Residence Hall

Women at Residence Hall bring to a close the social events of the summer season with two teas, one of which was given this week.

The teas are sponsored by Miss Ruth Villars, house director of Residence Hall. The first tea was given from 4 until 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The last social event of the quarter will be the tea given at the Hall next Tuesday afternoon from 4 until 5 o'clock.

The last picnic and the last meeting of the summer of a county organization of teachers was given by the teachers from Livingston county yesterday evening at the City Park. The picnic was given at 6:30 o'clock and closed the social activities of the group for the summer. Plans for the social were made by Lorene Sparrow and Elizabeth Morris, officers of the organization.

Kappa Omicron Phi Social

Gypsies! No, it was just the Kappa Omicron Phi actives entering Residence Hall last Monday evening, although at first glance one would think them to be real Bohemian wanderers.

Active members of the organization were entertained by the pledges at a social given in their honor in the Solarium at the Hall at 7:30

VERNON (BUD) GREEN

Student Pres. Green, Norma Ruth Logan Marry June 20

Vernon (Bud) Green, Independence, student president at the College last year, and Norma Ruth Logan, Maryville, well-known student, were married June 20 at Topeka, Kas., it was learned here this week.

Mrs. Green was graduated from the Maryville high school in the class of 1933 and from the College last spring. She was popular on the campus and was outstanding in women's athletics.

The groom, a graduate of Independence high school, was also graduated from the College last spring. He was outstanding on the campus, having served last year as president of the student government association and in 1935-'36 as vice-president of that organization. Green was an outstanding athlete on Bearcat basketball and track teams. He was awarded the Howard Leech medal for athletic and scholarly ability his junior year in the College. Green will teach and coach athletics at the Sikeston, Mo., high school next year.

L. C. Ritterbusch of Maryville was present in Topeka for the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Green will be at home next fall in Sikeston.

o'clock last Monday evening.

Gypsy costumes were worn by all the actives. The penalty for not wearing such a costume was a fine.

Varsity Villagers' Matinee

Members of the Varsity Villagers, organization of women residing off the campus, were entertained by their housemothers at a matinee given Monday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock at the Missouri theater. The householders organization entertains the Villagers each quarter.

This summer they were privileged to see "Cafe Metropole" starring Loretta Young, Tyrone Power, and Adolphe Menjou.

All-School Dance Last Friday

A large crowd of students of the College and friends attended "Alexander's Rag Time Strut," the all-school dance sponsored last Friday night in the West Library by the College social committee. The dance was given in honor of Dr. Henry Alexander, who will teach next year at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville. He has been chairman of the commerce and business administration department here for the past few years.

Book cases in the library were covered with white monk's cloth on which were painted lines for treble and base clefs, filled in with notes and pictures of musical instruments. Near the entrance the song "Auld Lang Syne" was written out in full. The picture of a Negro dancer donned the wall at the north end of the library.

Music for the affair was played by an orchestra consisting of Ralph Yehle, saxophone, Tracy Lancaster, trumpet, Allan Bing, piano, and Bruce Coffman, bass.

Guests at the dance included Dr. Alexander and Miss Ruth Miller, Mr. Dwight Dorrough and Miss Mattie M. Dykes. Chaperons included Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Baldwin.

Virgil Yates was master of ceremonies at the dance.

STUDENT GIVES REPORT

An interesting report was given by Eleanor Crater in fine arts, 145, under the supervision of Miss Olive S. DeLuce. A new type of art can be taught children in the elementary grades it was learned. The child first makes a pattern on paper, cutting out the pattern and laying it on a piece of tin. With a sharp object the pattern is cut out. It may then be bent into the desired shape. This is inexpensive for old coffee cans, tin cans or a sheet of thin tin may be bought. Dogs, flowers, bookends and many interesting and unique objects may be made.

MAKES FRATERNITY AUDIT

Mr. Roy Ferguson, assistant business manager of the College, spent a portion of last week in Kirksville auditing the books of the National Sigma Tau Gamma Fraternity. Mr. Ferguson was appointed national auditor of the fraternity the early part of 1937.

All Answers to Banquet Problems

house. At the back door each guest is given a paper with pencil attached and told to write down numbers, and opposite each number the name of the person wearing this number. After all guests have arrived they are ushered into the banquet room, are told that after five minutes of silence the false faces are to be removed, and that the person whose identity is guessed the greatest number of times will be proclaimed the Chief of Dunces. This person should be adorned with a paper bag and his honor greeted with much gusto.

Miss Harris then describes the decorations, the table, the place cards, and the menu which offers such dishes as creamed Irish potatoes as ice cream cones, and angel food cake with apricots and whipped cream arranged to look like egg on toast. The entertaining program is discussed in detail and the guests are sent away by the simple method of leading them several blocks away and telling them "that it is time for all 'dunces' to say 'goodnight'."

The book covers practically every kind of banquet one could give including New Year's Banquet, Wishing, a "Link-on", "Sky-High", "Hello", "Growing Flowers", "Gathering of the Ghosts", "Star of Bethlehem", "Yes, We're in College," and many others.

Illustrated lucidly by the author, the volume is indispensable to individuals and organizations that give even an occasional banquet.

The Stroller

Headline of the week—the term—the school year—any year—MY-NATT AND HELEN WENT PFFT.

This being the last issue of the season, we are going to pour forth a lot of dirt from my soul, aren't it.

First, and foremost, I think you are a lot of sissies and can't take it, but you were such good sports that I do want to heap upon you my thanks. Only the likes of you could make such a lousy column such an outstanding success.

Nothing has happened.

The school orchestra playing for the dance Friday night possessed very good balance....."

Toughie Leeson, can you move that muscle?

Wish I could publish the faculty destiny that I know.

Cass has lost Wells or has Wells just lost Cass?

P. S. This the Dr. Jekyll of the Stroller column; wonder what Hyde knows this week?

Start cramming for examing.

Gene Hill and Ardelle Thornton have what is so called a romance or maybe she is that way about all the boys.

Slack Sifers visited the College this week and Jim Wells didn't lose a bit of time either.

Frank Yourek isn't being mentioned on purpose; its just an accident that we choose him for the spotlight this week.

Lieutenant So or Which with black hair and the Mexanico accent picked quite a gal—Hoeni I believe.

Saw Tat Groh here, in fact I'm still seeing her.

Mary Frances Barrock and Dowell even acted interested in each other at the dance.

The golf tournament was won by—your guess is as good as mine.

If there is anything Roy Brown likes, it is young and beautiful girls.

Emma Lee Vance is two timing somebody but I can't tell yet just which of the five it is that is being crossed up.

Hit song of my week. "Wherever you go, I'm following you."

Somebody ought to be told that Dolores Messner is being too nice to Mac Coverdell.

Rebecca Foley visited at the Hall this week or did she visit Jack; she's too pretty to visit Jack all the time.

If there is someone in this institution of higher learning who could and would help with their intimate knowledge of tariff, please see Joe Cofer; he has been trying to find out how much the tariff is on a "Sing-Sing" girl from China.

Don't ever let it be said that Aileen Sifers hasn't a temper, cause she shows it off everytime someone tells her she is slipping with Miller (Tweeda).

Viola Josephine Hepworth tells me that she is simply bored stiff with school this summer. It isn't nearly so romantic as last summer.

Don't be surprised boys if you see an ad in the daily paper advertising: For Sale: one V8 Ford, repossessed, after August 5, call in evenings.

Signed Dorothy Gray Wort.

Saw Liz Wright the other nite over at the Dorm, still looking for a man to woo her under the moon. Just a hint Liz, join the Christian Science way.

The Super-Wooers-Wooing-Club didn't meet after all, cause Virgil, who told me personally he would supervise all detailed matter, wasn't there.

For anyone wishing a screen test, see the successor to "Bird's Eye Morrison," Jim (C. E.'s pride and joy) Wells. He also has a military suit girls, and Sifers has gone home, and, and...

FLASH—Orchids and roses and flowers to Luke Palumbo and Francis Todd, who said the words in Washington, D. C., sometime ago, so my best correspondent, Mrs. Thelma Pebley, says.

The girls at the dorm have a new heart throb, he is Lt. Silvers of the local C. C. C. camp, yeah, he is the dark and quite handsome man with the baton that keeps good conservation on the up and up. They tell me he is from K. C., but I am sure as far as the girls at the dorm are concerned, he doesn't ever have to go back to K. C.

P. O. thinks the army is a subdivision of the W. P. A., but he was invited to follow the foot steps of the best sergeants Battery C has, and refused—said he wasn't in sympathy with that form of life. Just another idealist who will get ahead, by using the one he has.

The moon's been awfully pretty lately, and that reminds me, who started that business of "your so pretty?" I think its nuts, but it does bring the conceit out in some people that are awful pug nosed, but cute. Are you reading D. G. W.?

Burn, burn, Jim Stephenson, cause it's out—your just a heart-breaker from way back. Yeah, but too far back. Don't you know it isn't nice to intervene in love affairs, especially when it's one-sided like Sifers'?

Neil Weary is still in school. Although I did have my hopes, after all there are only five more days. By the way, did you see the swell epigraph for the Stroller in the book store. All we can say in retaliation is, "People in Glass Houses Shouldn't Throw Stones." Especially youse guys in der Books Joint.

We had a swell time at Alexander's dance, it was simply marvelous, all except the bally bally of the M. C., cause he was so high in the air I couldn't hear him let alone see him, the mug, the rat, the Super Wooer.

Minnie Ha Cha will date, too. She knows all about guidance, too. Is now taking the course to brush up on all forms.

I hope when Irene Dunlap gets down to Pattonsburg this fall she has to be in at eight o'clock every nite, and never allowed a single late leave. I guess that she can't be blamed, cause Spicer don't like to woo.

Its a cruel world, Norma Ruth Logan (used to be) told me she finally beat Doris, her sister in catching a man, but can she hold him? I haven't seen Bud around on the campus since the eventful nite of June 20, at Topeka, Kas., when he looked down into her sleepy eyes and said "I do." But just between the few of us, lets all say, "Many happy returns of the day," and success to one of the best and most popular couples on the campus. I say that without blushing cause ever since I have known Norma Logan I've known her well, in fact she is one of the first crushes I ever had, believe it or not, I took her home, and low and behold I kissed her, then ran breathlessly home, and looked at the moon, but don't get me wrong, I was only 12 then, "But Today, I Am a Man."

WERE YOU IN SCHOOL THEN?

One time in the not too distant past these students were attending S. T. C.

KANSAS CITY TRIP PLANNED

The sociology class will make a field trip to Kansas City on Saturday, July 31 to visit the Consumer's Cooperative Association, Boy's Club, and Urban League, and other social agencies. The group will leave the Administration building at 6 o'clock Saturday morning. The cost of the trip will be $2.00. Anyone who is interested in making the trip should make reservations with Dr. Mehus.

Kindergarten Circus Tremendous Success

Fun! Fanfare! Frivolity!

Everything that makes a circus appeared on the College campus Thursday evening, July 22, when, the kindergarten-primary department held its annual circus.

Flags and red balloons gave color to the gay scene, and pop flowed freely. Hawkers here and there shouted their wares to an excited group.

First, the Grand March, with Virgil "Chubby" Yates in the lead, entered the arena. High, high, a vertible Barnum, stepped lively in grand attire.

The tap dancers were well trained for their acts. The dear little elephants, peering from under their trunks, were revealing the tigers, though one of their group carried on even to the extent of losing his tail. Could that have been the reason for the sit-down strike? No wonder they were so docile with the delightful trainer, L. E. Egley, who seemed to enjoy his tigers.

The lions looked fierce enough. Some of the audience rather drew back when they came roaring from their tent. "Jimmy" seemed just a little afraid of them himself.

Jack had surely worked with his giraffes—they were so docile! The polar bears were in fine shape, perhaps because of the cool weather and their efficient trainer.

The music furnished by the grade orchestra made the circus complete.

The finished product always reveals that which has gone before. The combined efforts and thought which made the circus possible was apparent and impressive. The naturalness with which the children played their individual parts was a revelation.

LIBRARY NOTICE

All students are asked to have all library books, and general textbooks procured in the library, returned to the library on or before August 3.

This will be of advantage to students in that there will be no delay in the checking-out process at the end of the quarter.

Miss Marjorie Keyes spent the week-end visiting Miss Helen Shipman in Mound City.

GARLIC KILLS BACTERIA

Los Angeles, Calif.—(ACP)—Garlic fumes that keep the love-bug at a distance and will kill certain bacteria.

Experiments conducted by three bacteriologists at the University of Southern California, R. E. Vollrath, Lucille Walton and C. C. Lindgren, indicate however, that the odoriferous substances in the garlic are not the bacteria-killers. Other less prominent smelling substances contribute the antiseptic quality to the fumes.

Good Grid Season in Bearcat Outlook

Just thirty-four days from to-day Coaches Milner and Stalcup will call for football candidates to take the field for their first practice of the 1937 season.

All indications at the present time point to a good season. A new coach, new boys coming in, a new system and a new deal. Coach Stalcup states that everyone will start from scratch this year. There will be no cinched positions on this team. With a new set-up such as this we can expect to see the fur fly when Coach Milner holds his first scrimmage.

Among the new faces on the field will be some of the most outstanding athletes in Missouri and neighboring states. These will be balanced by many men of last year's squad, some of the more outstanding ones returning will be the Rogers brothers, Bill Bernau, Almquist, Zemles, Irving, Nickel, Zuchowski, Cox, the Moore brothers, Richards, Molitoris, Reital and many others that will be in there battling for a position.

The loss of Ryan and Long through death will be keenly felt as these men had been groomed for a varsity berth. Graduation dealt the Bearcats a hard blow with the loss of our star kicker and quarterback, Yates and Rulon. The loss of Rouse and Flanders will be keenly felt also.

There has been a rumor that the Bearcats will go to a camp on the Missouri river for a week.

COLLEGE STUDENT DIES; FUNERAL HELD SUNDAY

Miss Rebecca Taylor, 20 years of age, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Taylor of Wilcox, died Wednesday evening, July 21, at the Missouri Methodist hospital in St. Joseph, following an operation for appendicitis performed last Wednesday. She became seriously ill last Monday.

She was born June 4, 1917, at Skidmore. A graduate of the Clearmont high school, she had attended the College here for two years and had been elected to teach next year at Ireland school, about seven miles northwest of Maryville. Miss Taylor was a member of the Christian church.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Victoria Howden, Miss Taylor's grandmother, in Skidmore, conducted by the Rev. S. D. Harlan of Clearfield, Ia. Burial was at Skidmore.

Rebecca will be remembered at the College as a gay, likeable girl. She was a member of the orchestra, band, and chorus, Alpha Phi Sigma, honorary fraternity, and the Association for Childhood Education.

Says Body Thinks Along With Head

Pittsburgh, Pa.—(ACP)—Thinking is done with the body below-the-head as well as with the brain.

That is what Dr. Charles Macfie Campbell, professor of psychiatry at Harvard University, told 1,000 members of the American Psychiatric Association.

Although most scientists regard the brain as an organ of thought, Dr. Campbell considers it a mechanism for expression instead of a point of origin for the thought processes.

"I don't know where thought is," he said. "Thought, instead of being something isolated is a manifestation in which much, if not all, of the organism participates."

"We are learning more about the brain and its functions, and the newer knowledge is causing us to take a different view of that organ and its relations to the body as a whole.

"Brain surgery has been developed to a high order of efficiency, and the results which have followed the removal of what were formerly regarded essential parts of that organ have led us to believe that functional areas of the brain are not as localized as we have formerly believed," explained Dr. Campbell.

"Many of the sensory and motor areas of the brain are located in the frontal lobe, but operations have been performed in which the whole frontal lobe has been removed, and it has been found that there was much less interference with the mental processes than we expected, but some behavior disturbances were introduced."

"A rather crude illustration of the fact that the whole body participates in thought processes instead of the brain alone can be found in the case of a Frenchman who gesticulates wildly when he talks. If you tie his hands, this Frenchman would think less clearly."

"If you study man on the chemical, physical or biological level, you do not study the complete man. And if one possessed all knowledge of bodily processes on these levels he would still not know nor understand life," said Dr. Campbell.

Band and Chorus Open Musical Fest Here Last Evening

Mr. Clare Wigell and Miss Constance Johnson Direct Two Organizations

The College band and chorus opened the summer musical festival series last night with an interesting and varied program.

The band under the direction of Mr. Clare Wigell, acting chairman of the music department, played "Skyline," by Alford, and "Mood Mauve," by Howland. The woodwind ensemble, composed of Belle Ward, flute; Mynatt Breidenthal, French horn; and Ogle Thomas, bassoon, played the "Fugue in E Flat," by Bach. As their last number the group played "Headlines," by Colby.

The latter part of the musical program was presented by the College chorus under the direction of Miss Constance Pearl Johnson. The Chorus sang first "Moonlight and Music," by Pinsuti.

Opal McElwain and Marjory Murray, sopranos, sang "The Gypsies," by Brahms; the women's ensemble sang "The Valley of Dreams," by Fletcher. The last two numbers by the chorus were "By the Waters of Babylon," by Campion-Dett, and "Alleluia, Christ Is Risen," by A. Kopolyoff.

TACT, TO SHOW HOW HARMLESS WOMEN ARE

Madison, N. J.—(ACP)—As Mrs. America climbed one rung higher toward equality with men in the professional world, she got a mental pat on the back from Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve of Barnard College.

Speaking with reference to the decision of New York City's Association of the Bar to admit women to membership, the Barnard dean explained the gains to the New Jersey division of the American Association of University Women:

"The Association of the Bar of New York recently decided that women were human beings, really a part of mankind, and this may mark the turning of the tide."

"The pendulum has been swinging the other way in education and the professions in the last six or eight years," observed Dean Gildersleeve. The effects of the depression and the philosophy of dictatorships in other countries and to some extent in the United States are the cause of this.

Industrial Arts Building to Be Ready By Fall

Modern Building Will Centralize All Courses of the Department

COST OF ANNEX TO BE $10,000

Mr. Donald N. Valk, chairman of the industrial arts department, announced last week that the masonry work on the new annex to the industrial arts building east of the administration building will be completed by the beginning of the Fall term, September 14.

Fred Davidson, Barnard, a junior in the College and editor-in-chief of next year's Tower, drew the plans for the new building in a drawing class under Mr. Valk last Spring.

Increased enrollments in industrial arts courses have made the new annex a necessity, according to Mr. Valk. A sum of $10,000 will be spent for the structure which will be 71 feet long, 38 feet wide and which will join the present building on the east.

The new annex will permit considerable expansion in the work in the industrial arts department, Mr. Valk said. Previously industrial arts courses have dealt mainly with wood work and drawing, with a minimum of metal work.

On the first floor of the new building will be a new general metal unit including a new machine shop, a foundry, forging, sheet metal and art metal equipment. The office of Mr. Valk will be located on the first floor as well as an automotive and electrical department and a new lecture room and a wood and metal finishing room.

The north half of the second floor will house a new drafting room, while the south half will be devoted to Miss Mary Fisher's classes in elementary industrial arts. Departmental work will thus be more centralized.

Training school classes will utilize the present drafting room located on the second floor of the present building. The present room will be a model training school room of the general shop activity type. Vitalized agriculture classes will also be housed in this room.

Four main divisions in the future plan of development along industrial arts lines are as follows, according to Mr. Valk: 1. The general metal division which has been explained. 2. General wood shop, which includes hand bench work, machine wood working, wood finishing, wood turning and pattern making. 3. General drafting, which includes machine drawing, mechanisms, architectural drawing and blue printing. 4. Miss Fisher's work which includes the preparation of elementary teachers for industrial arts instruction in the grades.

The new Bearcat football coach, Ryland Milner, will spend half of his time teaching in the wood shop at the industrial arts building this fall.

College Persons to Pi Omega Pi Meet

Miss Minnie B. James, chairman of the commerce department and sponsor of Pi Omega Pi, national commerce fraternity, accompanied by Martha May Holmes, president of Beta chapter, Pi Omega Pi, 1936-37, and Elizabeth Wright, secretary of Beta chapter 1936-37, last week attended the celebration held in honor of the tenth anniversary of the founding of Epsilon chapter of Pi Omega Pi, at Iowa City.

Miss James, speaking of the trip, told a Missourian reporter, "We met the Epsilon chapter on the campus at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon and went with them to the Palisades, a resort twenty-five miles from Iowa City. We had the honor and pleasure of having Miss Kathryn Munkoff, the national president of Pi Omega Pi, ride with us. Miss Munkoff is a forceful person with an arresting personality. She has to her credit the development of the direct writing approach in the teaching of shorthand. She developed this method in her teaching in Cedar Rapids.

"Saturday afternoon was a care-free play time. This included a launch trip on the beautiful Cedar river whose palisades give the resort its name. Dinner was served at the Club House at the Palisades, and what a dinner! Bohemian-built and served in quantity! Needless to say that everyone did his best, not to out-eat his neighbor, but to satisfy his hunger and show his appreciation of the excellent food."

"Although the trip was ostensibly to visit the University of Iowa, we did not neglect to look at some other colleges on the way. We circumnavigated the campuses of Parsons college at Fairfield, Iowa, Wesleyan at Mt. Pleasant, Cornell college at Mt. Vernon, and Grinnell college at Grinnell."

"The weather was propitious, the travelers companionable, and the car ready and willing. What more does one ask of a trip? We even brought waterlilies from the lily pool of the Amana Colonies and took a peep at the golden domes of the capitol building in Des Moines."

"Other people of interest to Pi Omega Pi, and to commercial education," Miss James added, "were at the celebration, especially Dr. P. O. Selby, founder of the fraternity and head of commercial education at Northeast Missouri State Teachers College, Kirksville, Mo., who is now teaching at Iowa State this summer."

SPLendor OF NATURE

By Mildred R. Broyles

An essay written as part of the regular work in a class in English composition.

Nature has a marvelous splendor and charm as she prepares for winter. All her banners are flung flauntingly about, and her flaming reds are glowing like many camp fires. Nature sends out a challenge in brilliant colors from every hill and valley. She answers the advance of winter with a loud triumphant battle cry in crimson and gold.

Nature calls to me with her array of colors flashing against the October sky. I turn swiftly to the woods to greet her in her riot of beauty, before she closes her tents and moves on. For she is a nomad moving restlessly from place to place.

Oaks Signal

The richly dressed oaks signal to me from a great distance. The maples wave their gay scarfs to the breeze, and beckon me closer. I am led on into the labyrinth of compelling beauty, as I am eager to see all the pictures nature is painting, and learn all the secrets she skillfully hides under her flaming canopy.

A wanderer is in the woods before me. The mournful south wind is searching for the flowers, whose fragrances he wafts to the waiting world. He sighs as he searches in vain among the hills and hollows, and moves softly around gently calling. Mother Nature consoles him, as she points at the colorful carpet of leaves spread over the bare earth. She promises him she will tuck the fragrant beauties in warm blankets, and keep the tenderest bulblets safe; so they may greet him when he comes in the early spring.

A rough wind hurries by. He shakes the leaves, and causes them to rustle and scamper madly along the ground. He urges every leaf to join the mad frolic, and follow his merry piping. A cascade of yellow, crimson, and brown leaves comes fluttering down from the waving branches.

Then all is silent. The magic touch of solitude descends upon me and I am consumed with a longing to clasp all the gifts of nature closely to my heart. I thank mother nature for this perfect moment.

The silence is broken by the faint thud of a walnut, as it is gently cast down from the loving hands of its mother. A frisky squirrel scampers to the spot, and triumphantly proclaims the booty his own. Like a marauder of old he seizes the plunder, and clutching the nut tightly between his sharp little teeth, he whisks away to his store-house. Nature smiles approvingly, as she encourages the little woodland creature to put up a plentiful store of food.

A Call from the Evergreen

A high pitched call comes from the protecting depths of the evergreen, who is stubborn and clasps all her tiny needles close to her sighing branches. I eagerly search for the little nuthatch, and soon I am rewarded. He scurries up and down, around and around the tree, as he peeps under the loosened bark. He singles out choice bits of insects, and swallows them hurriedly. He is not afraid of winter, because Mother Nature assures him she has hidden a bountiful supply of food under the dark coats of the trees.

The glow of the setting sun tells me I must retrace my steps from this wealth of color. I am loath to leave for the intrinsic beauty and charm of nature has penetrated my soul and holds me enthralled.

I am not sad, as I reluctantly leave behind the autumn glories. I know the gay banners and flaming tents will soon be in ruins, and gnarled trees will stretch their naked arms to the winter sky. But I am happy as I feel the confidence of nature, who flaunts her glorious splendor and prepares to battle with the cold.

HAS OLD LETTERS OF CIVIL WAR DAYS

Mr. Hubert Garrett, instructor in the social science department of the College, is the possessor of several old letters written before, during, and immediately after the days of "The Second American Revolution," the Civil war.

The letters were written to Mr. Garrett's grandfather, Mr. A. R. Garrett, by a business partner, Mr. P. P. Sargent.

Student's in American history, 134, taught by Mr. Hubert Garrett, have read some of the letters in their instructor's possession. The letters were addressed to Mr. A. R. Garrett, who was living at that time in New Orleans, La. Dates on the letters were indicative of the fact that they were written between the years 1859 and 1867.

Feeling ran high among the Southern "gentlemen," if the following quotation from one of Mr. Sargent's letters is representative: "Almost universal as the old Democrats now seem to sustain Old Abe in his determination to sweep from the earth, I cannot believe you justify his course—just as well might Old Abe think to turn back the tide of our mighty river as to compel us to again live under the Government of the Old Concern. If brothers must fight against brothers—so be it."

Some of the letters indicated that prices in those days were very low. A few examples follow: chickens sold from $1.75 to $2.01 per dozen; cattle and hogs were two and one-half cents per pound. A tax receipt showed that taxes on an 80-acre farm in Woodbury county, Iowa, amounted to $6.94.

Report Reveals Girls Smarter Than Boys

was engineering, with music, agriculture, coaching and law following in the order named.

One-hundred and eighty-six of the freshmen stated that they were attending the Teacher College as a preparation for the professions or businesses of law, medicine, engineering, journalism, etc. Nearly as many gave securing a general education as their reason, while 125 entered school to study a special subject.

The freshmen guidance program is designed to give the first year students the greatest possible aid in development while they are in College. Program objectives are: better adjustment to college life; a wiser selection of courses; the acquisition of a thoughtful and searching attitude toward a choice of vocation; higher standards of scholarship, and the growth of character through successful execution of carefully laid plans.

The guidance activities include a separate freshman registration day, an orientation course; individual counselling, and research to determine vital institutional and personal data.

The program last year was in charge of Bert Cooper, director; Miss Margaret Stephenson, director of women's activities; Mr. Sterling Surrey, director of men's activities; Mr. C. E. Wells, director of student labor; and Mr. Homer T. Phillips and Dr. O. Myking Mehus, of the teacher placement committee. In addition, every member of the regular faculty had a part in the guidance activities by being made the personal advisor to a small group of freshmen, not exceeding ten students, assigned to him at the opening of school. The faculty member is responsible for the student's program of studies, his social conduct and his general success in college.

Wagner, "Faithful," and "Without a Song." The audience was especially impressed by the baritone's ability when he sang "When I Think Upon the Maidens," and old English song.

The first group by Miss Cook was a selection of German songs, including "Prayer," from "Tanhauser." "Mine Swan," was a story of a man who thought his swan was singing as it was dying. Before singing "Let All My Life Be Music," Miss Cook said, "It is just the way I feel and I hope you will feel I can go on feeling that way afterwards." She also sang the modern songs, "Straisse," and "April Morn."

Miss Rehberg gave two piano selections, one of which was an arrangement of "Jesus Christ, the Son of God."

Mr. White and Miss Cook brought the program to a conclusion as they sang "Silvery Moon," and "Your Land Is My Land."
